British, Canadians Expanding Salient

LONDON, July 21.—(AP)—Torrential rains and deep mud bogging the battlefields of Normandy slowed Allied offensive today, but Canadian troops slopping forward a mile captured St. Martin de Fontenay, five miles due south of Caen.

Russian Troops Capture Strong Base of Ostrov

LONDON, July 21.—(CP)—Russian troops have captured Ostrov near Latvia, Premier-Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Ostrov, 10 miles from the Latvian frontier, and 25 miles from Estonia, fell to troops of the third Baltic front "as the result of a skilful outflanking manoeuvre combined with a frontal attack," Stalin said. He described the city as a large communications centre and powerful German stronghold "covering the way to the central districts of the Baltic area."

EXPLOSIONS IN LWOW

Earlier reports from Moscow said that explosions could be heard from the great rail centre of Lwow suggesting that the Germans were engaged in demolition preparatory to retreat. Last midnight, the Russians said they were within five miles of the pre-war Polish city.

Premier Pledges Continued Fight On Racketeers

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
EDSON, July 21.—Premier Ernest Manning, addressing a Social Credit rally here on Thursday night, pledged his government to a continued and unremitting fight against the financial racketeers. The government had tackled the tremendous problem of battling the money barons as soon as it came into power, and the fight would be continued.

The Premier recalled the bitter attacks the financial interests had made on the government, but they had not shaken the determination of the government to carry on. Speaking on government control of industries, he stated that to take away private monopoly and make one huge state monopoly certainly would not change the fundamentals of monopoly and it was the fundamentals, which Social Credit was opposing.

DISTRIBUTION
The problem was one of distribution and not of production. A bottleneck occurred in distribution of production, which was dominated by private monopoly-controlled credit.

Premier Manning charged the oil picture in Alberta had been distorted by the opposition. He said that it is not generally known that prior to 1930 the Dominion government controlled land in the province of Alberta, also the oil and mineral rights and these oil. Continued on Page 8, Col. 1

Roosevelt Sees Lasting Peace In Four Years

A PACIFIC COAST NAVAL BASE, July 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt last night accepted a precedent-smashing fourth-term nomination for President with the prediction that another four years will find the world at permanent peace and declared:

"New hands will then have full opportunity to realize the ideals which we seek."

Mr. Roosevelt made no personal mention of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his Republican opponent, but he said American voters this fall have the choice of turning the government over to "inexperienced and immature hands" or continuing in office those who already are planning a permanent world peace and security.

SENSE OF OBLIGATION
The President said his fourth term decision "is based solely on a sense of obligation to serve if called upon to do so by the people of the United States."

He spoke from the presidential podium on the fourth day of the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—The Swedish radio said today telephone communications between Stockholm and Berlin were broken again late yesterday and were still out "late last night."

7 New Nominations

166 Candidates Now Seeking Alberta Legislative Seats

Nomination of seven new candidates by CCF and Independent parties, and withdrawal of one Independent candidate bring total nominations to date for the Aug. 8 election to 166. Present party standings of candidates named are: Social Credit 55; CCF 55; Independent 27; Labor-Progressive 25; others 4.

At Thursday nominations, the CCF named one candidate, while Independents named four. In Olds constituency, where A. Boyce was chosen Independent candidate at a recent convention, a new meeting was called when Mr. Boyce decided against accepting nomination. The Labor-Progressive party named one candidate, as did the Social Credit party.

(The complete unofficial list of nominations will be found in tabulated form on Page 3.)

The CCF named J. A. Besuregard as candidate in St. Paul riding, leaving only two constituencies, Hand Hills and Pincher Creek-Crowsnest, where party candidates have not been nominated. Independent candidates named. Continued on Page 2, Col. 4

Given Fourth Term Nomination

Franklin Delano Roosevelt last night was given an unprecedented fourth nomination for President of the United States by a landslide majority at the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

On One Ballot

Fourth-Term Nomination Given President Roosevelt

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP)—The Democratic national convention last night handed a fourth presidential nomination to Franklin Delano Roosevelt on one ballot which gave Mr. Roosevelt 1,086 votes compared with 89 for Virginia's anti-New Deal senator, Harry F. Byrd, and one vote for James A. Farley, who engineered two elections for the President but balked at a third term.

The Byrd support came mostly from southern delegates who had objected to some of the convention's actions.

The convention also adopted a platform pledging that the United States should join an association of sovereign nations empowered to use armed force, if need be, to preserve the future security of the world.

SEDLAM AT END

Thousands of Democrats packed Chicago's tremendous Stadium to hear Senate majority leader Alben Barkley's nominating address. At the end there was bedlam as cheering delegates milled about the floor.

From the Mississippi delegation, apparently reflecting the southern "revolt" on the race issue, came an attempt to get a roll call on the platform, but the motion failed to get the necessary one-fifth support for such a poll of delegates.

The platform pledged continuation and improvement of the Democratic administration's domestic program, and was loud in its praises.

Former Chief of Army Staff Is Executed as Ringleader In Anti-Hitler Conspiracy

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, July 21.—The Nazi hierarchy launched a blood purge in Germany today in reprisal for abortive revolt touched off by an attempt to assassinate Adolf Hitler, and travellers reaching Sweden from Berlin said the capital was in a virtual state of siege.

Col.-Gen. Ludwig Beck, former chief of the German general staff, was executed as a ringleader of the anti-Nazi conspiracy which threatened to plunge Germany into civil war, but which appeared to have been suppressed by ruthless action which left Hitler in firm control.

The German military radio said tonight that Propaganda Minister Goebbels had frustrated an attempt by a "clique" of high command officers to get possession of the government quarters of Berlin.

Passengers aboard two planes from Berlin reported on their arrival in Malmo, Sweden, late today that the city was quiet, with no signs of shooting or revolt.

Hears "Hundreds" of Officers Killed

One traveller reaching Malmo late today, however, said that he had heard that "many hundreds" of Germany's best officers had been executed in an attempt to put down unrest and disorders.

The travellers said that SS Elite guards and Gestapo agents were swarming into Berlin in token of the state of alarm into which the Nazis had been thrown by the incipient violence, while all regular army troops apparently had been sent outside the city.

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, newly vested with the command of all armed forces in Germany, appeared to have sent his legions of vengeance on a ruthless hunt for dissident and suspected elements with the wheels of "Nazi justice" already grinding out their toll.

(A traveller reaching Sweden today declared that two German divisions revolted Wednesday in East Prussia, apparently touching off the movement which culminated in the reported bomb attempt on Adolf Hitler's life.)

Speaking in angry and strident tones in an unheralded address to the Reichstag today, Goebbels said:

Urges State Control Coldwell Stresses Danger Of Monopolies After War

At C.C.F. Election Rally

Since the war broke out, Canada has been more subjected to control of the great monopolies than ever before, and the only way to deal with monopolies is to take them out of private hands and place them under direct state control, M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party, declared at a party rally in Masonic Temple Thursday night.

In Alberta on a speaking tour supporting the CCF in the Aug. 8 provincial general election, Mr. Coldwell warned of monopolies gaining control of government-built war industries and equipment when hostilities are over. In some cases, he charged, agreements have already been made between the Dominion government and large industries concerning the future use of war plants.

The CCF leader said he had no apologies to offer for coming into Alberta at the invitation of provincial CCF officers to discuss certain phases of his party's program.

ISOLATION IMPOSSIBLE
"No province in Canada can live in isolation," he stated. "That's something the Social Credit government must understand. The great problems facing Canada cannot be solved provincially."

Speaking to a capacity crowd in the Masonic auditorium, Mr. Coldwell called upon Premier Ernest Manning to repudiate Paul Grogan, vice-president of the national Social Credit party, and Norman Jaques, Social Credit member of parliament for Wetaskiwin.

Referring to Mr. Manning's statement published in Edmonton papers Thursday afternoon, denying the CCF's charge that he had been involved in a "plot" to overthrow the government, Mr. Coldwell said:

"For us soldiers in the west, there is only one watchword: With inflexible determination and unconditional loyalty to the Fuehrer, we shall bring the fight against the enemy to a victorious conclusion."

"Long live the Fuehrer! Long live Germany!"

Nazi Press Issues Special Editions On Hitler Speech

LONDON, July 21.—(CP)—Berlin newspapers issued special editions today with the text of Adolf Hitler's speech concerning the attempt on his life, but the public remained calm after a brief preliminary flurry of excitement. The Nazi transoceanic agency said today in a Berlin broadcast.

Put to Death

The Berlin radio said today that Col.-Gen. Ludwig Beck, above, named as one of the conspirators against Hitler, was "no longer among living persons." Beck was former chief of the German general staff. Deputy Press Chief Sundermann was quoted as saying there was "proof that a connection was established with an enemy power."

2,500 Planes Raid Targets Inside Reich

By GLADWIN HILL
LONDON, July 21.—(AP)—Around 2,500 American planes bombed the heart of Germany today, with 2,000 flying above a howling channel storm for attacks on Regensburg and Schweinfurt and another 500 from Italy penetrating within 125 miles of Berlin.

Targets of the Italy-based bombers were at Brux in Sudetenland, the mountainous border province which Germany stole from Czechoslovakia in the Munich conference which predated the war. Brux is northwest of Praha (Prague), the Czech capital, and the flight entailed a 1,400-mile round trip.

NIGHT ATTACKS

During the equally night, a force of around 1,000 U.S. heavy bombers pummeled objectives in Germany, France and Belgium, losing 31 planes. The major rail yards of Courtrai bottlenecking three trunk lines leading to the Normandy battlefields were targets, along with German oil plants at Homberg and Bottrop-Weilheim in the Ruhr, the Port of Hamburg, robot bomb platforms in northern France and road convoys north and south of Paris. Italy-based planes struck around the River Po and in Yugoslavia.

An airplane plant was bombed at Regensburg in southwest Germany, 50 miles north of Munich. The much-bombed ball bearing works of Schweinfurt, in the southwest Reich 476 miles from British bases, were worked over again.

Poles Advance Beyond Ancona

ROME, July 21.—(AP)—Improved weather is aiding the Allied offensive in Italy, an Allied communiqué said today, and Polish troops of the British 8th army are making "good progress" following the capture of Ancona.

The war bulletin said Allied 5th army troops had advanced to the outskirts of Castellorosso, an important road junction eight miles from Empoli on the Arno river.

Other 8th army units in the upper Tiber Valley are closing in around the town of Clitella. Castellorosso, which has been stubbornly defended by the enemy for some considerable time, the communiqué said.

Allied 5th army patrols have crossed the Arno river, field dispatches announced today, as German artillery began pumping shells into fallen Livorno (Leghorn) from positions outside the town.

The Arno previously had been crossed by British 8th army forces operating on the right flank of the 5th army.

Flies to U.S.

LONDON, July 21.—(CP)—Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Privy Seal, arrived in Washington soon after lunch today, flying directly from London in 19 hours and 44 minutes, the air ministry said.

Graziani Ousted

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, minister of war in the Fascist government of northern Italy, has been removed "at the suggestion of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring," the Swiss radio said last night.

Four Candidates Have Filed Papers

Bringing the total who have filed nomination papers to four, three more Edmonton city candidates in the provincial general election have filed papers with H. H. Crawford, city returning officer.

Latest nominees to file and deposit the statutory $100 fee are Elmer E. Roper, provincial leader of the CCF party, William Hallina and A. M. Herd, both Labor-Progressives. First city candidate to file with Mr. Crawford was W. J. Williams, Canadian Legion, who is running on a "Veterans" ticket.

All nominations must be in the returning officer's hands by Saturday, July 29, official nomination day. Most papers are filed well in advance of the "deadline."

Hitler Fights Revolt

early-morning broadcast only a few hours after Berlin announced he had escaped death, Hitler declared:

"At an hour in which the German army is waging a very hard struggle, there has appeared in Germany a very small group similar to that in Italy (apparently a reference to the Italian surrender last Sept. 8) which believed that it could thrust a dagger into our back as it did in 1918. But this time they have made a mistake."

That a revolt of widespread proportions may have developed among high German officers was indicated by Hitler's words, although he, as well as Reichsmarschal Herman Goering and Admiral Karl Doenitz, who followed him on the air, all tried to emphasize that the dissatisfaction was concentrated in a small group.

Goering Accuses Junkers Generals

Goering's remarks were directed to the German air force, Doenitz to the navy. No spokesman appeared for the army, and this was regarded as possibly significant.

Goering, who is topped only by Hitler in the Nazi hierarchy, pointed the finger of retribution directly at the stiff-backed Junkers faction of the German army.

Some London quarters expressed belief the entire affair might be a frame-up to give the Nazis an excuse to purge some German general staff members considered unreliable.

There is considerable suspicion over the fact Berlin propagandists for six hours had been telling the German people and the world that the attempted assassination was "made by the enemy" before Hitler came out with a flat accusation of his own army officers.

Goering declared the "mean attempt at murder" was organized by "a miserable clique of former generals who had to be chased from their posts for a leadership that was as cowardly as it was incompetent."

Nazi broadcasts emphasized that the revolt was "completely crushed" and Hitler seemed to be in firm control again—at least for the time being—with all communications out of Germany fully in his service.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet quoted an "unconfirmed report from a private source" today saying "SS units are marching to Berlin to maintain order." The newspaper often has taken a pro-Nazi line.

INCIDENT IN BERLIN

The Transocean news agency reported in a broadcast dispatch that "certain precautions taken in the centre of Berlin for a short time Thursday evening were all that could be seen. No shots were heard and no barbed wire visible." The ambiguous wording was not clarified.

Gen. Heinz Guderian, tank expert, has replaced Gen. Kurt Zeitzler as army chief of staff, Transocean reported. The agency said Zeitzler's retirement was "caused by illness in recent weeks."

Hitler struck back with the same speed and fury that characterized the first great blood bath of Germany on June 30, 1934, which wiped out the last sizeable faction of open anti-Nazism in the Reich.

"FIFTH FRONT"

Alfred Rosenberg, ardent Nazi ideologist, writing in the Nazi party organ Voelkischer Beobachter, labeled the Nazi opposition a "fifth front" which the Germans must combat.

This move is open hostility on a fifth front—the head and heart of the German war command," he said. The party organ said Hitler, "with his old steadfastness, immediately resumed his work. He knows his soldiers now will fight as never before, and will remain firm, becoming even more firm."

The Press Association said the American and Russian ambassadors, John G. Winant and Fedor Gusev, and Sir William Strang, the three constituting the European advisory council, met today to study the news from Germany. Winant also conferred with Eden.

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison in a luncheon speech expressed the belief that "there is something shaky in the state of the German Reich," but warned against thinking that it means the immediate or early end of the war.

FOUNDATIONS SHAKING

He said Hitler's speech "sounds like the rather hysterical screechings of a man who feels the foundations of his political power shaking and being disturbed."

Hitler, Reichsmarschal Hermann Goering and Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz themselves disclosed the uprising in a series of extraordinary broadcasts early today, revealing that a "criminal officers' clique," including a number of generals who had fallen from grace, had set up a puppet government and assumed both civil and military authority.

While there was no immediate confirmation of DNB's claim that the revolt had been smashed, continued Nazi control of the German radio network news agencies and newspapers indicated that the Hitler regime again was firmly in power after weathering the gravest threat in its history.

NO OUTSIDE CONTACT

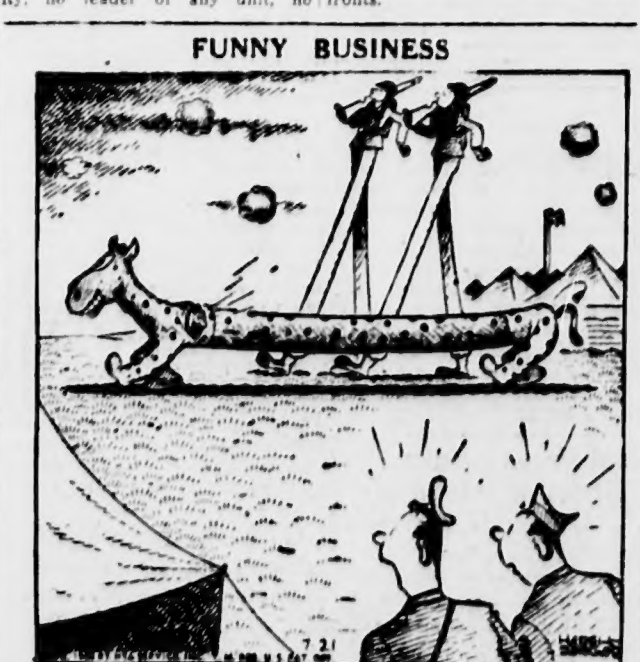

German authorities again clamped an iron censorship on communications between Germany and the rest of Europe last night after permitting the release of meagre details of the assassination attempt against Hitler. Normal telephone communications between Berlin and the remainder of Europe were broken again at 8:40 p.m. Swedish and Swiss dispatches said.

Clandestine radio stations still were attempting today to fan the flames of revolt. One, identifying itself as Radio Calais of the "Atlantic group," broadcast a proclamation from the "German peace government" asserting that its organization "at home in Germany has inspired new hope in millions of citizens."

Another self-styled "free German broadcasting station" appealed for unity among opposition forces, said the "time has come to finish Hitler's regime and demand that all 'brutal force be repaid with brute force, and terror by terror.'"

Hitler appointing Heinrich Himmler, chief of the dreaded Gestapo, to be commander-in-chief of the home front to exterminate all opposition "ruthlessly," declared.

"I order that no military authority, no leader of any unit, no

KILL ON SIGHT

"I also order that it is everyone's duty to arrest—or, if they resist, to kill on sight—anyone issuing or handing on such orders."

Official announcement of the assassination attempt was made by the German DNB Agency Thursday night. It said that besides Hitler's minor injuries, 13 of his military and naval staff were hurt, three of them seriously. Hitler himself said one of these had died, but did not name him.

The place and exact time of the bombing were not disclosed, but it was implied that the scene was Hitler's secret headquarters.

REASSURES PEOPLE

Hitler went on the air ostensibly to reassure the German people of his health after it was officially announced at 6:58 p.m. (10:28 a.m. M.D.T.) that an attempt had been made to assassinate him with explosives, but his words held little comfort to a people fed of late on a bitter diet of defeats on three fronts.

A German tank counter-attack was beaten back near St. Martin. British and Canadian infantry had taken over the brunt of the fighting from General Montgomery's armored units.

The deepest penetration of the German defences took place directly east of Caen, where British tankies by-passing Trea to the north drove to within 1,000 yards of the village of Bures on the Dives river slightly more than eight miles from Caen. The enemy has flooded the river to block the coastal route to the great port of Le Havre.

Directly south of Caen, British and Canadian infantry drove to within 1,000 yards west of Verrieres and captured St. Andre sur Orne on the east bank of the Orne river. Verrieres is five miles south of Caen.

In Troarn itself, British tanks encountered the strongest kind of resistance from a company of tiger tanks and withdrew to the outskirts of the railway station just west of the town.

In the drive southeast of Caen toward Vimont on the main road to Paris, a Nazi anti-tank screen still held up the British advance between Emieville and newly-captured Frenouville.

EAST BANK CLEARED

The east bank of the Orne now has been cleared for five miles south of Caen while the west bank is rapidly being cleared of a few German stragglers for the same distance.

Evrecy, nine miles southwest of Caen, was under heavy attack by the British. Noisy fell to the British after several days stubborn fighting.

Only local advances were reported today in the American sector along the western portion of the Normandy line. Close air support was curtailed by the weather. The Allied air forces flew 6,000 sorties yesterday, but most were directed beyond the battle-line.

The Germans appeared to be withdrawing steadily in the western sector of the Caen front with the British taking 12 miles southwest of Caen and about two miles beyond Bayeux in the direction of Villers-Bocage.

CREDIT SIDE OF ATTACK

On the credit side of Montgomery's attack in the Caen area has been:

1. Almost negligible British and Canadian losses.

2. The gaining of more room for movement in the Caen plain.

3. The breaking through of the outer crust of Rommel's Orne defences.

Mediation Board Member Appointed

REGINA, July 21.—(CP)—Lieut. H. K. Warren, former member of the Saskatchewan legislature for Bengough constituency, has been appointed a member of the provincial mediation board, it was announced Thursday by Attorney-General J. W. Corman.

Chairman of the board is N.C. Byers and it is likely that additional appointments will be made by the government in the near future.

The attorney general said power was given to the lieutenant-governor in council under the moratorium act to prohibit or stay proceedings of any kind.

The board works to effect an agreement between debtor and his creditors to provide for the settlement of the debts, either in full or by a composition.

Mr. Corman added that it was the intention of the government to strengthen the board so that rights of both creditors and debtors might be fully investigated and protected.

Slight Error
In Reporting
Hitler's Escape

LONDON, July 21.—(CP)—The German agency Transocean made a slight error in reporting Hitler's escape from assassination yesterday.

"War the German people," concluded the message on its high-speed mechanical broadcast, "the escape is a sign that the fuhrer is under the protection of a higher power."

Then came a speedy correction, "under the protection of a higher power."

Transocean had just charged that the attempt was "a devilish plot by Germany's enemies."

Four British girls who came to Alberta in 1940 under the guest children plan will return to England and Scotland shortly to do war work, according to Charles B. Hill, government supervisor of child welfare.

WHERE STAYED

Miss Hobson, from Stockton, England, has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. Tyldesley, 11825 91 street, since she arrived in the city. Miss Scott has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beck, with 7114 105A street. She came from England with a sister, Agnes, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. H. Fazackerley, and a brother, Gordon, a guest at the home of Mrs. John M. Imrie.

to Lwow, already battered by a Soviet cannonade and by-passed on the north, and military quarters were confident of the early liberation of the besieged German base in lower Poland.

At the same time Russian Cosacks massed in the forests along the west bank of the Bug river north of Lwow for a speedy sweep across the Polish plains toward the Vistula and Germany beyond.

On the Baltic front, Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's third army of White Russia was fighting for the junctions controlling the roads to East Prussia and extending its gains west of the Niemen river in lower Lithuania.

(Nazi broadcasts yesterday reported fighting at Augustow, eight miles from the border of East Prussia. The Moscow dispatch did not specify the mileage involved in the approach to the German soil.)

Big air battles raged over the Niemen sector as German planes swarmed against the Soviet bridgeheads and crossings in an attempt to slow down the Red Army advance and gain time for the battle of East Prussia.

IN FINAL PHASE

The battle of Lwow dominated the news from the long front, with dispatches reporting it in the final phase even as the Russians stormed its gates, indicating that the overwhelming pressure was expected to throw out the German garrison in short order.

Soviet confidence in quick victory at Lwow was reflected in the disclosure that Russian civilian service personnel—party secretaries, teachers, doctors, druggists, architects and bank clerks—were moving in a new administration immediately.

One mobile printshop already was publishing the first editions of a Lwow newspaper, "Free Ukraine." Engineers were laying asphalt roads to Lwow to speed up the advance.

The drive against Lwow was supported by a new Red army offensive to the north in the Kovel area, forming the southern arm of a pincers against Brest Litovsk.

Premier Godbout
Says Restrictions
Gladly Accepted

RIMOUSKI, Que., July 21.—(CP)—Premier Godbout told a political meeting in this lower St. Lawrence town last night that home front restrictions are "gladly accepted" in Quebec province because "These help our sons overseas who have just freed the pope from his role as a Nazi prisoner."

Speaking in favor of Maurice Tessier, Rimouski County's Liberal candidate in the Aug. 8 Quebec general election, the premier said that young Quebecers are "Sacrificing their lives in Europe for us and for their country."

"They have freed the pope from his role as a Nazi prisoner and now they are freeing our mother country, France," he said.

Untrained Airman
Lands Big Bomber
After Pilot Is Hurt

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—FO. R. H. James of Vancouver, an R.C. A.F. air bomber, now is wearing the ribbon of the Distinguished Flying Cross for his feat as a pilot with no flying training.

When returning from a sortie in a big bomber, James' pilot was temporarily blinded by particles of glass from a shattered windshield. FO. James, who had no previous flying instruction, manned the controls.

James reached and circled an airfield. His third attempt to land was successful, and he set the aircraft safely down, saving it and its crew.

28 Planes Lost

LONDON, July 21.—(AP)—A U.S. strategic air force communique last night said nine fighters and 19 heavy bombers of the 8th air force failed to return from yesterday's attacks in Germany.

Coldwell Stresses Danger Of Monopolies After War At C.C.F. Election Rally

ing that the Social Credit party was connected with the Bloc Populaire in Quebec, and denying Social Credit is anti-semitic, Mr. Coldwell said:

"I repeat what I have said before. The vice-president of the Social Credit party for Canada, Ex-Mayor Gregoire of Quebec, was one of the delegates who met Rene Chaloult, one of the leaders of the nationalist movement in that province, and begged him to take nomination in Quebec city."

"Mr. Gregoire has recently said he is supporting Mr. Chaloult and said he is supporting the Bloc Populaire candidate in Chicoutimi, in the provincial election."

"When Mr. Manning repudiates Mr. Gregoire, then I will believe there is no association between the Social Credit party and the Bloc Populaire."

REPEATS STATEMENT

Mr. Coldwell continued: "Regarding anti-semitism and Social Credit, I shall repeat what I said at Lethbridge."

"I sat in my place in the House of Commons and heard Mr. Jacques make a bitter attack on the Jews, reading into the records (of the House of Commons) the Protocols of Zion."

"When Mr. Manning repudiates Mr. Jacques as Social Credit member for Wetsaskiwin, then I shall believe there is no anti-semitism in the Social Credit party."

Industrially, Canada has done well in turning out instruments of war, the country having spent hundreds of millions of dollars on war plants to make munitions, said Mr. Coldwell.

"These plants and machines should not pass into the hands of the people who now operate them," he told listeners, saying that in four years of war, we have invested as a nation nearly $1,000,000,000 in government plants and equipment. This amount was compared to $300,000,000, the total investment by Canada in the field of education since Confederation in 1867.

PASS TO MONOPOLISTS

"I warn you these valuable plants and equipment will pass into the hands of monopolists. In many instances, these plants have been built on property owned by monopolies, and in some case, agreements have already been made (for future use of the plants in question)."

He referred to the case of Defence Industries Limited, controlled by Canadian Industries Limited, in turn controlled by the DuPont and Imperial Chemical interests.

Mr. Coldwell said this plant, (Defence Industries) was by agreement not to produce anything other than for military purposes.

"This means the plant cannot be converted for peacetime requirements," the CCF leader charged. He went on to say that in peacetime, many of the war plants could be used to smash present monopolies.

He told of an Ontario synthetic rubber plant, where production by the end of 1944 will exceed annual imports of rubber in the industry's biggest pre-war year. This plant is controlled by Standard Oil of New Jersey, through its Canadian subsidiary, Imperial Oil, Mr. Coldwell stated.

USE PETROLEUM PROCESS

He said that instead of experimenting to find a suitable process for using grain alcohol in the synthetic rubber manufacture, this plant uses a petroleum-base process.

"Here is an industry that has been thrown to the hands of the oil interests, instead of developing a use for low-grade grain for alcohol," the party leader charged.

The CCF became a national movement because it is composed of Canadians from one end of the country to another, from Cape Breton to Vancouver Island. It is a mass movement of the people, the most democratic in the world, listeners were told.

In six provincial elections held in Canada since the 1940 general election in Alberta, the Liberals elected 107 members to provincial Legislatures, the Conservatives, 78, the CCF 105, Social Credit 3, and others, 11.

Mr. Coldwell went on: "If that trend since 1940 has any significance, then the trend since 1941 has more."

"In three provincial elections since 1941, the Liberals have elected 40 members; the Conservatives, 48; the CCF, 81, and the Social Credit, none."

"That is the trend across the country. In Saskatchewan in the recent election, 67 per cent of the men and women in uniform voted CCF—two out of three."

"In the Ontario election, if civilians had voted as servicemen did, the CCF would have had 48 out of 90 seats in the provincial house."

SEES OVERSEAS VOTE

Men and women just back from Britain say the CCF should get 60 per cent of the overseas vote in the next Dominion election, Mr. Coldwell said. He described a "Gallup poll" held at the Beaver Club in London, where 83 per cent of men and women contacted said they will vote CCF in the coming election.

"Our boys overseas and in this country know what they are fighting for as well as against," the speaker continued. "And yet the premier of this province and his associates dared to call this movement 'national socialism,' the name of Hitler's movement."

"When the boys come back from overseas, they are determined to see the things they are now fighting for become a reality."

Mr. Coldwell reminded listeners the present government of Alberta has been in power for nine years. It was first elected on a promise of a province-wide dividend of $25 a month, a promise which remains unfulfilled.

RICHEST PROVINCE

"Alberta is the richest province of Canada. What are the results of the use of her resources?"

"Eighteen per cent of farm homes have telephones; 1.9 per cent have a vacuum cleaner; 5.5 per cent have electric light; 2.5 per cent have modern sewage facilities; 10.6 per cent have furnaces; and less than one per cent are permanent homes."

Canada, and it has been put there step by step as it would be put in Canada by the CCF, Mr. Coldwell declared.

Old age pensions in New Zealand start at 65 years of age for men, and 60 for women, while the age in Canada is 70, he went on. While Canada places every barrier in the way of old-age pension applicants, New Zealand will allow a $2,500 bank account for an old-age pensioner, and will allow pensioners to earn up to $5 a week as well.

New Zealand health services, maternity care, blind allowances, widows' allowances, family allowances, were detailed to the meeting. Health services there are as free as education services are in Edmonton.

"What New Zealand has done in the way of social services, we can do here. We are a richer country than New Zealand," said Mr. Coldwell. "What Canada can do with her resources, after what little New Zealand has done!"

CONTROL OF INCOMES

He warned there should be a ceiling and floor for incomes, saying while Canadian boys are overseas, some of them dying, people not satisfied with $15,000 incomes do not deserve incomes at all. (The CCF suggested a $15,000 ceiling on incomes in a recent debate.)

Mr. Coldwell was introduced by Ald. H. D. Ainley, provincial president of the CCF.

Elmer E. Roper, provincial party leader, spoke at beginning of the meeting.

"The issue of this election has been clear from the very beginning," Mr. Roper said. "It becomes clearer as the campaign goes on."

"The issue is between the great national political party that now has 118 members in parliament and in legislatures, which is growing by leaps and bounds, which will win in Manitoba and in British Columbia, and which even its opponents admit is the best bet to win, and the other party, a group whose own leader has said his party can only operate in the national field."

Mr. Roper declared the Social Credit party can only operate in the field in which it has no support at all, the national field.

He referred to a recent election

Canada, and it has been put there step by step as it would be put in Canada by the CCF, Mr. Coldwell declared.

Old age pensions in New Zealand start at 65 years of age for men, and 60 for women, while the age in Canada is 70, he went on. While Canada places every barrier in the way of old-age pension applicants, New Zealand will allow a $2,500 bank account for an old-age pensioner, and will allow pensioners to earn up to $5 a week as well.

New Zealand health services, maternity care, blind allowances, widows' allowances, family allowances, were detailed to the meeting. Health services there are as free as education services are in Edmonton.

"What New Zealand has done in the way of social services, we can do here. We are a richer country than New Zealand," said Mr. Coldwell. "What Canada can do with her resources, after what little New Zealand has done!"

CONTROL OF INCOMES

He warned there should be a ceiling and floor for incomes, saying while Canadian boys are overseas, some of them dying, people not satisfied with $15,000 incomes do not deserve incomes at all. (The CCF suggested a $15,000 ceiling on incomes in a recent debate.)

Mr. Coldwell was introduced by Ald. H. D. Ainley, provincial president of the CCF.

Elmer E. Roper, provincial party leader, spoke at beginning of the meeting.

"The issue of this election has been clear from the very beginning," Mr. Roper said. "It becomes clearer as the campaign goes on."

"The issue is between the great national political party that now has 118 members in parliament and in legislatures, which is growing by leaps and bounds, which will win in Manitoba and in British Columbia, and which even its opponents admit is the best bet to win, and the other party, a group whose own leader has said his party can only operate in the national field."

Mr. Roper declared the Social Credit party can only operate in the field in which it has no support at all, the national field.

He referred to a recent election

editorial in the Edmonton Journal, the first part of which was said to be "full of abuse we are now almost beginning to like."

The article went on to express confidence in the Social Credit party, although in 1940, or even a year and one-half ago, the Journal had no confidence in Social Credit.

"It will be a sorry day for M. J. Coldwell if ever the millionaire press can say it has confidence in the CCF government or party," Mr. Roper said.

"DROWNING BABY"

Most amusing part of the election campaign to date, he continued, is the Edmonton Journal and the Calgary Herald "drowning the baby they brought into the world in 1940—the Independent party."

"The Independent party came to us in 1940, to try to swing the CCF to their party. They said there would be a place on the slate for us, and hinted broadly about cabinet positions, but we said 'No' emphatically."

"Now the Journal says it is too bad the Independents have no organization and are not likely to have any by election time, inferring that party would be at the bottom of the poll. It asks independent party members to vote second choices to the Social Credit party—which it was created to destroy."

"That's the greatest political sumersault in history."

Referring to natural resources of the province, Mr. Roper said we have them, but great wealth has already been taken out of them, particularly from the oil fields. A CCF government would stop this.

The only way to obtain rural electrification in the province is by public ownership of the power distribution system in Alberta, now owned by Calgary Power, the provincial leader continued. "Anything they do in Quebec, we can do here, only better."

WILL NOT CONFISCATE

"We don't want to confiscate and will not confiscate."

Calgary Power could be taken over and three per cent debentures issued for the whole $20,000,000 installation, Mr. Roper suggested.

He said one of the first things a CCF government would do in Alberta, in order to have profits come over the province, would be to take over Calgary Power "lock, stock and barrel."

"The CCF government will abolish completely and absolutely political patronage on the government payroll. We'll not keep people on the payroll such as any Landeryou, to be moved around from one constituency to another to be used as candidates."

"We will establish a civil service commission, and any civil servants doing their jobs properly and honestly will not be disturbed by a CCF government."

Arthur Thornton, president of the Edmonton CCF, was meeting chairman. On the platform with Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Roper were Ald. Ainley, Mrs. F. C. Butterworth, J. H. Dowler, CCF city candidate, Mary Crawford, and L. L. Kostash, party candidate in Willowton.

A collection taken during the meeting gathered $273.58 for party funds.

Purse Is Stolen

Two youths were suspected by police of the theft of a purse from a tent near the carnival grounds on Jasper avenue, about 9 p.m. Thursday. The purse, owned by Mrs. J. Carbone, 9332 104 avenue, was said to have contained about $20 in cash.

The lads, according to a guard were seen in the vicinity of the tent shortly before one of them drove away on a motorcycle. Police are investigating.

R.C.M.P. Check Remark About British Troops

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—Justice Minister St. Laurent said yesterday in the Commons that Royal Canadian Mounted Police were investigating the accuracy of a report which quoted Jacques Sauriol, Montreal newspaperman, as having criticized English soldiers at a political rally. Mr. St. Laurent said if the report was found to be true "appropriate action will be taken."

Dr. H. A. Bruce (PC-Toronto Parkdale) quoted a report which quoted Sauriol as having told a political rally July 9 that "English soldiers were the rottenest on earth and that Canadian soldiers were pressed into service to fight Britain's battles."

PROBE ORDERED

Mr. St. Laurent said the report of the meeting had been drawn to his attention and that he had immediately instructed the R.C.M.P. to investigate its accuracy. They had informed him the investigation had started.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, said that Mr. St. Laurent might also have the Mounties investigate a C.C.F. meeting in Lethbridge, Alta., "where they seem to have taken the law into their own hands."

He was referring to an interruption of a speech by M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, in which the interrupter failed to apologize and was bodily removed from the hall.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that he hoped the leader of the opposition did not expect his department "to investigate every little brawl that occurs."

"Salute to a Zombie" Caused Currie Clash

WINNIPEG, July 21.—(CP)—The Winnipeg Tribune yesterday published a song entitled "Salute to a Zombie," which it said was the "spark" which set off a reported fracas at Currie barracks, Calgary, Tuesday, in which general service men and home-defence draftees brandished rifles and bayonets. The time is "Clementine."

The Tribune said the song, written by three returned soldiers and a C.W.A.C. sergeant, originated in the No. 11 District Depot at Vancouver.

Apparently the first of seven stanzas represents a song to be sung by draftees, and the others by G. S. troops. The first verse reads:

I'm a zombie, I'm a zombie,
I'm a zombie, yes, I am—
I'd much rather be a zombie
Than an active service man.

Another reads:
Now come listen all you zombies—
You drink our wine, you drink our beer,
But you won't turn active service,
You're a handcuffed volunteer.

No Time for Apathy

It is believed that something more than 60,000 persons will be entitled to vote in Edmonton in the provincial elections on August 8. This is based on enumerators' returns received to date.

While this represents a ten per cent increase over the voters' list in the 1942 by-election, it does not represent much of an increase over the voters' list employed in the general provincial election of 1940 when 59,685 eligible names were listed.

The point is that there will be just about as many Edmonton people entitled to vote on August 8 as were entitled to vote in 1940.

In that election, 42,136 ballots were cast. This means that 17,549 of the electorate did not trouble to cast a vote.

Now there is always a certain percentage of the public apathetic about politics. The percentage in 1940 may have been a reasonable one. It may be now.

But if this percentage prevails on August 8, 1944, if 17,000 electors or 10,000 electors or even 5,000 electors fail to vote, it will not be merely incurable political apathy, but something very close to criminal neglect.

The Edmonton Bulletin is not disposed to condemn as utterly worthless or insincere or unpatriotic the doctrines of any political party. But it does feel very strongly that the voting on August 8 will determine the future constitutional course of Canada. This election means more than a choice between two or three sets of political administrators. It means that the Canadian way of life, the Canadian conception of government and the Canadian political philosophy are at stake.

The issues in this election are more fundamental, more far-reaching and more vital than the issues in any provincial election since Confederation. To refuse or neglect to have a voice in deciding those issues is not to repudiate politics, but to repudiate citizenship.

If 60,000 names are on the voters' list, 60,000 people should cast a vote.

No Moderates in Japan

As was indicated in this column the other day when the fall of Hideki Tojo was forecast, a political upset in Japan has no other significance than an admission of failure.

In the Japanese tradition, a statesman who fails must get out. There is no such thing as a leader being carried on in a momentum of gratitude and affection long after his actual usefulness has passed.

The fall of Tojo merely reveals two things:

1. Growing Japanese disunity over strategy, which is implied in the fact that a new set of brains is to be put to work on Japan's problems.

2. A sense of ineffectiveness in the war. The Japanese admit, in firing Tojo, that they are losing the war.

There has been a lot of talk, since the announcement was made, to the effect that the Japanese are probably planning to induct a more "moderate" government with the idea of getting better peace terms from the Allies than they would likely grant to a purely militaristic cabinet.

Such an inference is unwarranted and illogical.

There is no such thing as a "moderate" in Japan. Every Japanese is devoted from his cradle to the world domination of the emperor. Every tradition of Japan, the constitution itself, is bent towards the enslavement of the whites and the conquest of the earth.

Any "moderate" would be, inferentially, a rebel. And, as a matter of fact and practice, every reformer and anti-war leader who has dared to speak his mind during the past quarter century has been assassinated.

To hope that a change of government in Japan means a change of heart is sheer folly.

Lidice, or Victory?

An eye for an eye is an old human instinct, so it was quite to be expected that a demand for it would arise out of the robot bombing of London. That demand did come, from some London newspapers, who suggested that German villages and towns be earmarked for destruction in repayment for the maniac and ersatz Luftwaffe which was dropping one-ton bombs on London.

The magnificent spirit of the British people under the main Battle of Britain has lost none of its fine courage in the face of this possibly lesser but no less trying phase of the war.

We can not speak for the British people, who are entitled to their own opinions. However, we can possibly speak with some justice in behalf of the war effort, through the medium in this particular case of Canadians who form 30 per cent of the R.A.F. air crew. As such they would be directly concerned with any such proposal.

Our guess is that those Canadians would consider the obliteration of German villages per se as a secondary substitute for the job they went over to do. While exacting a literal revenge, they still would feel that their efforts were rather a deferment of the final vengeance, rather than a hastening and targeting of it.

For if a bomb load can help put out of action a war plant which in turn is making explosives to dump on British and allied countries, it is surely accomplishing more of an objective than it would by wiping out the homes of German peasants.

We could, if we wished as allied nations, inflict an endless number of the Lidice episode on Germany, just as the Germans erased that Czech town for the death of the butcher Heydrich. But if we diverted our bombers to such purposes we would surely lose precious days and months in the decisive phases of the war.

Home-Ownership

The immediate demand in Edmonton, and in most of the other large centres in Canada, is for low-rental houses; houses which can be rented at moderate rates by people who have been drawn to the city under war conditions and many of whom may not continue to live here when peace returns. But it is to be hoped that houses built under the Federal and provincial loan plans will also be made available to parties who may want to buy them for their own use. Leases of such houses should carry an option clause under which they can be sold, proper provision being made to protect renters over a reasonable period against being compelled to vacate.

It will not do to lose sight of the fact that home-ownership is the safe basis on which to build a city. Nor of the complementary fact that a majority of tenants prefer to become buyers when the terms of payment are not greatly in excess of the rent. Relatively few houses are bought cash-down. Usually there is a down payment and periodic instalments, not infrequently monthly instalments. The monthly payment plan is by all odds the most attractive; so attractive in fact that a prospective renter is likely to become a buyer if the terms are within his reach.

Low-rental houses meet wartime conditions if there are enough of them. But these conditions will pass, and the long range desirability of encouraging home-ownership should not be forgotten in meeting this immediate need.

He does not mean that wheat must be cast altogether aside, but that its production is so precarious as to make it unsafe for a farmer to rely chiefly upon it for a livelihood.

Disruptions Within Tory Party

Allege Bracken Failed to Deliver Support From West

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA.—When Mr. Bracken accepted the leadership of the Conservative party, the feeling in political circles at Ottawa was that friction between the progressive and the reactionary elements in the party sooner or later would develop. Serious trouble, of course, was not expected while the party was in opposition. Generally speaking, an opposition can submerge its differences in a common desire to get into office.

The negotiations between the Conservative Old Guard, whose spokesmen were Mr. Meighen, and Mr. Bracken, which preceded the Winnipeg convention, indicated the dominant position in the party of the Toronto "group" or, as it is now called, the "clique". Going back a little further, there was the summary eviction of Mr. Hanson from the leadership in favor of Mr. Meighen.

Plainly, the position of the Toronto "clique" was exceedingly strong, and no second sight was necessary to foresee the difficulties which would confront a hand-picked leader who tried to act independently of those who had delivered the crown to him.

The only surprising thing about the present developments, therefore, is that the split should have come now. That a split has occurred is scarcely open to question. Whether it can be patched together and the semblance of party unity maintained remains to be seen. But whatever the outcome, the seriousness of the conflict within the party is freely conceded by Conservatives here, and has been a matter of discussion in the party caucus.

Of party wrangles there is, of course, no public record. As nearly as the facts can be ascertained, what happened in the party was that the Toronto "clique" which made Mr. Bracken the leader did so in the confident hope that he would attract farm support to the party, particularly in the west. But while the "clique" considered the advantages in having Mr. Bracken as leader, it seems not to have occurred to them that in crowning him they might be expected to abdicate their control of the party.

Certainly within a year of the convention doubts had arisen as to whether Mr. Bracken could deliver the expected rural support. Mr. Bracken's stock was going down. Mr. Drew's stock was going up. And as Mr. Bracken lost prestige, the disposition of the "clique" to interfere in party policy became more marked.

Mr. Bracken's reaction to this interference is indicated in the speech he made to the Progressive Conservative association at Ottawa on March 3, last:

"The job of the Progressive Conservative party," he said, "is to make good on the word 'Progressive' . . . I did not leave my western home to lead a party whose primary asset would be the incapacity and incompetence of its political opponents, and I can tell you plainly that I have no desire to head a government based upon such unstable foundations."

It is well known that there was a struggle at the conference between the progressive and conservative elements for possession of certain key positions in the organization. In the main, though not completely, the progressive faction won.

But the Saskatchewan elections operated to weaken Mr. Bracken's position. The "clique" now became convinced that Mr. Bracken's pull in the west had been greatly over-rated. All along the "clique" had desired to make over-all conscription an issue. This would attract support, particularly in Ontario, and would afford distinctive fighting ground against both Liberals and the CCF. Mr. Bracken, however, was an obstacle to this strategy. He had carefully abstained from making any commitment in favor of over-all conscription. He had severely criticized the home defence army, but he had put it up to the government to decide whether it should be sent overseas or returned to farm or factory. For reference, here, his speech in Massey Hall, Toronto, on July 3, 1943, is unmistakable.

On June 19, less than a week after the Saskatchewan election, the "clique" struck. Not Mr. Bracken, the leader, but Mr. McTague, the national chairman of the party and the candidate in the riding centring upon Mr. Drew's home town of Guelph, declared that the party stood for the immediate passing of the order-in-council which would make the home defence army available for overseas service. Mr. McTague endeavored to demonstrate that this had been Mr. Bracken's policy all along. Mr. Bracken was reported to have approved of Mr. McTague's declaration, but as Saturday Night remarked early in July, "no text of that approval has ever been published anywhere."

Mr. Drew approved of the policy emphatically, and on the very next day, The Globe and Mail did likewise. On June 21, Mr. Bracken, speaking at Kingston, on June 21, said: "If the government needs the men overseas," it should apply over-all conscription. Mr. Bracken, apparently, was still holding to his former policy.

From June 21 to July 11, the position of the party became increasingly confused. The Toronto "clique" clamorously insisted that the party was now committed to immediate, over-all conscription. Mr. McTague, at Ottawa, on June 23, qualified his earlier speech. Being the national chairman of a party which is split, is plainly no easy task. The parliamentary group was all over the lot. Mr. Rowe was for sending the home defence boys back to the farms, factories and forests. So was Mr. Homuth. Others were for over-all conscription. The "clique" dodged the issue.

On July 11, Gordon Graydon, the house leader, tried to pull the party together by stating, unequivocally, that Mr. Bracken had approved of the McTague declaration of policy on June 19. He did not try to explain Mr. Bracken's later speech to the contrary. But the evidence strongly indicated that the Toronto "clique" was winning out on this dispute.

But feelings within the party were deeply roused, and despite Mr. Graydon's public efforts in peace-making a first-rate row developed in caucus. The following day, the story broke in the newspapers. The South Press, which by and large is not unfriendly to Mr. Bracken, reported rumors to the effect that an attempt was being made by a Toronto "clique" to gain control of the party. The intention of the "clique," it was reported, was to use Mr. Bracken as a figurehead while running the party from Toronto.

There have been reports in peace-making a first-rate row developed in caucus. The following day, the story broke in the newspapers. The South Press, which by and large is not unfriendly to Mr. Bracken, reported rumors to the effect that an attempt was being made by a Toronto "clique" to gain control of the party. The intention of the "clique," it was reported, was to use Mr. Bracken as a figurehead while running the party from Toronto.

John Marshall, the Ottawa correspondent of the Border Cities Star, gave a fairly full report of the caucus. Premier Drew, said Mr. Marshall, has his eye on the federal leadership, and is not giving "unqualified allegiance" to Mr. Bracken. Whether Mr. Drew planned to "oust Mr. Bracken before the next federal election was only one point of the caucus discussion," Mr. Marshall reported.

Mr. Bracken has twice denied the reports of a split in his party and of the attempts of a Toronto "clique" to treat him as a figurehead. But Parliament Hill is not impressed by these denials. The dissonance within the Conservative party is real enough. Party members do not discuss splits within their ranks and prospective power plays for leadership which are non-existent and unreal.

What does interest Parliament Hill is the outcome. Which faction will win—the Toronto "clique" or Mr. Bracken. On the conscription issue, the "clique" seems to have held the whiphand. Mr. Graydon's belated declaration in the House of Commons is fair evidence on that point.

But this is only the preliminary skirmish. Who will be on the top of the heap when the bayonet work is finished?

Tapestry of Norman Conquest

Accurate Account of the Historic Invasion of England

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

With the news of the fighting around Bayeux in Normandy we are reminded that this sector possesses (or did till the Germans carried it off to one of their own museums) one of the world's most venerable and valuable historical relics—the fabulous Bayeux tapestry.

This tapestry is really an embroidery measuring 214 feet in length and 20 inches in width. The amazing thing is that it is the most complete record we have of the Norman invasion of England by William the Conqueror. In fact it is the source to which historians go for details of the invasion, and sections of it are reproduced in encyclopedias and history books to show details of the conquest.

It has been called the most astounding achievement in needlecraft and it must surely be. Certainly it is a marvelous legacy of the queen who is credited with having planned and directed the work of recording in embroidery the conquest of England. She was Matilda of Flanders, wife of William the Conqueror. It was worked with the needle on canvas, using eight different colors of worsted yarn.

Each panel in the Bayeux tapestry is a historical illustration of the details of the great story, and altogether they form an unequalled and authentic record of the manners and customs of the times.

One panel shows the crowning of Harold the Dane with a comet appearing on the right hand, thought to be an evil omen. Astronomers now identify this as Halley's comet.

Other panels show William ordering the building of a fleet as well as details of shipbuilding while still another panel shows an English ship approaching the shores of Normandy. Also illustrated is William with a large fleet of transports conveying horses and fighting men across the channel to the east coast between Hastings and Exmouth.

But the Bayeux tapestry and the fight to prevent the marriage. He pronounced sentence against them, naming their kinship as a barrier to marriage as Matilda was the granddaughter of William's aunt.

"Now, dear, don't say anything to hurt his feelings!"

Built Caen Abbey

William appealed to the Pope, who granted the dispensation on condition that the young duke and duchess each build and endow an abbey at Caen. They complied by building the sister abbey, St. Stephens for monks and Holy Trinity for nuns. William then built a royal palace for himself and his young duchess within the precincts of St. Stephens Abbey. The great hall here was one of the most magnificent apartments in Europe at that time.

The first pier ever constructed at Cherbourg was built by William at his own expense. He superintended the building and organization of the fleets, traced commodious harbors for his ships and made the city a real maritime power.

Strange Courtship

William was the illegitimate son of Robert the Devil, Duke Normandy, and of a tanner's daughter of Falaise, a village near Caen. However, William was recognized as Duke Robert's heir by the Norman barons. But when William set his eyes on Matilda, the daughter of the powerful Earl of Flanders, the idea of the marriage alarmed the King of France as a threat to him.

For a taunting insult which Matilda threw at William, it is recorded that he layd her on the streets at Bruges as she was returning from mass with her ladies; he dragged her by the hair of the head, beat her soundly, rolled her splendid clothes in the mud, then galloped away.

This escapade was followed by seven years of insults and hostilities between Baldwin and his followers and William and his men. Finally the belligerents found it expedient to negotiate a peace, after which William renewed his suit for Matilda's hand, and to the surprise of everyone, maybe even William, she serenely replied that it suited her very well.

But their marriage didn't take place without protest. The archbishop of Rouen was the uncle of the young Duke William and had been one of the leaders in the

Payroll

The Democrats are going into this convention with a payroll of 52 employees, drawing salaries of $4,476.91 a week—which is less than any payroll in previous years. Money-raising is a lot tougher these days, and the party is economizing. Here is the list of the main regulars who have done the spadework to put across the Chicago convention and will carry the ball from here on:

Chairman Bob Hannegan, $1,538.44 monthly; publicity director Paul Porter, $1,153.84; assistant to the chairman Charles Michelson, $1,000; William M. Boyle, $538.48; Edgar Brown, $500; Robert M. Moore, $500; Joseph Berger, $600; Lorena Hickok, $461.52; George F. Willson, $400; Mac Oliver, $240—all monthly.

The staff will be expanded, but not too much unless they are volunteer workers. Financial pickings are too slim.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

By Jack DeLong

THE balltossers from Anchorage were a disappointed lot indeed at the end of last night's encounter with the Edmonton Army Yanks. Prior to Thursday's game the management of the two squads and Edmonton league officials had agreed that a third game be played Friday evening if the Richardson Field crew took the measure of the Edmontonians in the second contest.

The Anchorage bunch, from Manager L.L. Robertson down, were pretty hopeful of tying up the series. It would mean another day in Edmonton before returning to duty at far away Anchorage. And after months and months in Alaska and the Aleutians Edmonton was a reasonable facsimile of paradise to the visitors.

The visit of the Anchorage nine was a success from every standpoint. Both games were well attended and the fans were treated to some sterling baseball even if the local airman had pitching and hitting that was quite a bit better than that on display by the visitors.

John Lefty Ducey is a good umpire but there are times when a lot of fans and a lot of ball players will give you an argument on that.

But good umpires are something like the prophets of old who were not without honor except in their own country. A letter received recently from a prominent sports officer at a Calgary R.C.A.F. training centre did much to make Ducey forget the harsh words that occasionally reach his ear down at Renfrew baseball park.

THE Fort Richardson Depoteers headed back to Anchorage, Alaska, unsuccessful as a result of the U.S. Army Yanks' 6-3 conquest of them in the second game of the exhibition baseball series at Renfrew Park Thursday night.

The game was more interesting and better played than Wednesday's diamond doings and the losers turned in some nice ball to give the Yanks a real battle.

Johnny Gray went the route to win for the Yanks. He was a trifle free with the passes, issuing seven, but chucked nice ball in scattering seven singles over the nine innings. He also fanned seven of the opposition for a good percentage.

Johnny Tuicillo started for the Depoteers and turned in a fair performance although letting up for six runs before being relieved by Charlie "Lefty" Lewis after allowing a single and hitting a batter in the seventh. Lewis was a little wild in starting, but settled down in short order and retired the side with only one run coming in. He went on to shut out the Yanks in their last time at bat.

Tuicillo did a nice bit of mound work in the fifth by only pitching three balls to retire the side, a rarity in baseball. All three outs were on fly balls.

Johnny Slipp came through with a run in the second inning on an error by Galvin, two smart steals and an overthrow by catcher Goodrich at third to give the Depoteers a 1-0 advantage.

The Yanks came back in the third with three runs to overtake the visitors. Birchfield was hit by a pitched ball to get on base and then second. He waited there while Dorsey hit safely down the third base line, and then both runners advanced on a sacrifice by Roush. Tuicillo chucked a wide one to Galvin to allow Birchfield to score and Dorsey to move around to third and then Galvin slammed out a single to centre field to drive in Dorsey.

From then on the Yanks led, but the losers were pressing all the time and making a good impression only to have every threat killed by the locals' smart defensive work until the seventh.

Some smart stickwork by Schumacher and Goodrich along with a walk to Meyers and an out at first gave the Yanks two more earned runs in the sixth.

Gray chucked three successive passes in the seventh to fill the sacks with Depoteers and then an error by Birchfield on Slipp's bouncer brought in Kosinski and Martel to cut the margin to a 5-3 score.

The Yanks finished off the counting in the last of the seventh on a run that came on a hit by pitcher, a single and a wild pitch, but the home teamers kept battling and were threatening in the eighth, only to have the winners pull off another double play.

Thrilling hockey was played for possession of the trophy shown above, the Merchants' Casualty Cup, emblematic of the championship of the Western Canada Professional Hockey League from 1923 to 1934. The historic cup will soon be on its way to the International Hockey Hall of Fame being erected at Kingston, Ont. Gordon B. Duke Keats, seen above with the trophy, has donated the mug to the Hall of Fame following a request from the hall officials. Keats captained two great Edmonton Eskimo hockey teams that won the cup in titanic struggles.

Merchants' Casualty Cup

Noted Western Puck Trophy Going to Hockey Hall of Fame

By JACK DE LONG

A FAMED hockey trophy, twice won by great Edmonton teams in pulsating action a few years back, is to take on symbolic immortality and repose with other honored paraphernalia in the International Hockey Hall of Fame to be erected in the City of Kingston, recognized birthplace of ice hockey in Canada.

The trophy is the Merchants' Casualty Hockey Cup, emblematic of the championship of the Western Canada Professional Hockey League in the decade from 1923 to 1933.

Gordon B. Duke Keats, great centre, ice wizard who did more than any other man to bring the trophy to Edmonton, has promptly complied with a request from officers of the Hockey Hall of Fame in the city to have the trophy sent to the shrine of puckdom.

The battered old hockey mug has had a story-book career since it was first put out for competition and seemingly forgotten for a period of four years, before being "rescued" from the ignominy of a forced sale by keen Edmonton sportsmen who spotted it in the window of a Jasper avenue electroplating shop, with a "for sale" tag hanging on it.

That was last summer and the cup was returned to the possession of the delighted Duke Keats who took it to the shop a few years ago for a repolishing job and then left the city for a time.

RECEIVES WRITTEN REQUEST
 AN honored spot on the mantelpiece of the Keats residence the trophy rested proudly until recently when the Duke received a letter from Capt. James Sutherland, honorary treasurer of the Hockey Hall of Fame.

The letter reads in part as follows:
 "I have just received a letter from Mr. Mervin Dutton, informing me that you had a cup that was played for in the old Western Canada Hockey League, and that you would be willing to donate same to the International Hockey Hall of Fame that we are planning to erect in the city of Kingston."

"I can assure you that such a trophy would be very welcome. Such trophies, as the years go along, will, we hope, form a most interesting chapter in connection with our great Canadian game. And having a suitable edifice to congregate all together, will be a most outstanding way to perpetuate those early days that we can all look back upon with pleasant memories."

"I trust that your trophy is suitably engraved in order that none of the glory of such a trophy may be lost."

"We recently received from Mr. Bishop of Battleford, Sask., a handsome ciosanne trophy that was presented to his team while on a trip to Japan in 1935 by the Canadian Club of Tokyo. Many other suitable gifts are promised."

AS SOON as the Duke can get a few minor repairs made to the cup it will be on its way east.

"I hate to let the cup go, but, after all, the Hockey Hall of Fame is the place it should be," the former centre ice star said recently.

And it's no wonder the Iron Duke feels sad about letting the Merchants' Casualty Cup out of his sight.

It was on the night of Friday, March 16, 1923, that the Edmonton Eskimos first won the cup, put up for competition the previous year, and won by the great Regina Capitals of that season.

The story of the championship game at the Edmonton arena has been told and retold, but to all who witnessed that memorable struggle it remains unanimously "the greatest hockey game ever played in Western Canada."

The supreme climax of a contest that for sheer desperation, could not be surpassed, came when Captain Duke Keats himself won the game after three overtime periods, with a penalty shot. The Eskimos won the cup again in 1933, defeating the Calgary Tigers in the finals. Keats was again a member of the championship team. The trophy has not been played for since that time.

The International Hockey Hall of Fame will become the shrine of hockey as the baseball hall of fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., has become the shrine for organized baseball. Kingston was selected because the first organized hockey was played there in 1855 by officers and men of the Royal Canadian Rifles, an Imperial regiment stationed in Canada.

The Hall of Fame is organized and established with the consent and authority of the governing bodies of ice hockey in Canada and the United States. The objects of the association are:

To establish, build and perpetuate in the history of the game will be recorded, replicas and souvenirs of the game may be received and exhibited, and appropriate memorials and testimonials of duly selected members of the International Hockey Hall of Fame may be displayed.

Now the Merchants' Casualty Cup will take on the perpetual honor that the battered old mug deserves.

Provincial Men's Playoffs

Officers and Navy Triumph In Thrilling Fastball Tilts

U.S.A.A.F. Officers entered the district final in the senior men's provincial fastball playdowns Thursday night when they handed the Central-Aerolines a 3-2 defeat to take the series two straight. H.M.C.S. Nonsuch won from the Enlisted Men 4-2 in the second contest of their series, but decision of the playoff is pending an answer of a letter to the president of the Alberta Fastball Association at Calgary.

Behind 3-1 with two out in the ninth inning, the Officers put on a real rally and came through with a single, two doubles, a walk and three stolen bases to score three runs and win one of the closest games of the season at Kingsway Park.

Mike Milner was in his winning form too, and held the Central-Aerolines to five safeties and three runs. Mike struck out six and only passed three in his pitching effort. Bill Tudor gave the Yanks a 1-0 lead in the first inning, but Stew Cowan held them scoreless until the last frame. The Centrals tied it up in the fifth on Bill Myers run and then went ahead in the next session when Al Clow and Alex Fedick tallied on a single, a triple and a sacrifice by Ken McAuley.

Blake Barker pulled off a nice fielding gem in the third inning when he went into the stands to snag Fred Nidiffer's foul ball.

NONSUCH SCORES TWO IN LAST FRAME TO WIN

H.M.C.S. Nonsuch got two runs in the last, inning of a seven-frame contest last night to break a 2-2 tie and win the second game of the best of three provincial playoff series. If the opener of the series, which was called for disorderly conduct when Navy was ahead, is ruled out, the third game will be played Saturday.

Last night's contest was featured by a home run over the left field fence by Daniels in the sixth inning that brought in the losers' two markers.

Al young chucked another fine game for the Nonsuchers and only allowed four hits, while the Sailors nicked Danny Munaw for seven. With the score tied 2-2 going into the seventh, Krook singled to third base, advanced to second when Young received a walk, moved around on an out at first and then came in along with Young on a timely double by Falkenburg.

Regarding the oil situation the premier pointed out that 136 million dollars had been expended by oil companies drilling wells, of this sum the companies had recovered approximately 118 million dollars and that taxpayers had benefited to the extent of 31 million dollars, without risking one cent in the initial development.

MANY ATTEND

The rally, held at the Edson theatre, was attended by 500 persons. It was in support of Norman Willmore, Social Credit candidate in the Edson constituency.

S. E. Phillips was chairman and introduced the speakers.

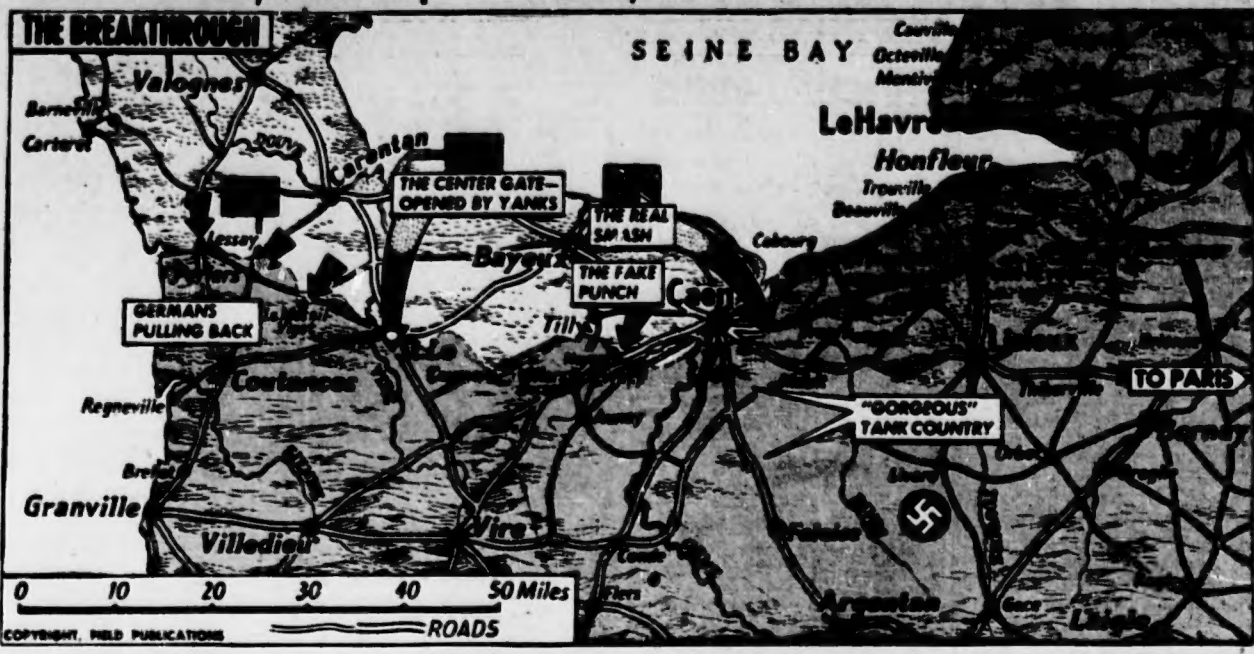

In addition to Premier Manning, those who spoke were Mrs. Manning and N. B. James, Social Credit candidate seeking re-election in Edmonton. Mrs. Manning spoke specially to the women and informed them of the vital part women are taking in these times, a time when they must not only attend to their homes, but carry on their duties as citizens.

Mr. James emphasized the necessity of voting and Mr. Willmore gave a brief talk stressing responsible representation.

Urges Tax Accord

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—A reciprocal income tax and succession duty agreement between all countries in the British Commonwealth was urged in the Senate yesterday by Senator Rupert Davies (Ontario). Succession duties became a topic of Senate discussion when second reading was given a bill ratifying a tax convention with the United States to eliminate duplicate taxation.

3 Bank Bill Amendments Are Rejected

Slaght, if accepted, would cause serious disruption of the banking system.

QUESTIONED ON DEBT

Mr. McGeer and Mr. Slaght questioned Dr. W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance, on the Canadian debt structure.

Dr. Clark said the interest charge in relation to the size of the debt was smaller than before the war. Mr. McGeer said the government was "going behind" $3,000,000,000 a year and national income was maintained by government spending.

Mr. Slaght said the national debt now was $18,000,000,000 and he wondered how much further it could go with safety.

Dr. Clark said that in light of the national income the debt could increase considerably without danger. If people "stuck together" the national income could be maintained after the war and debts and taxation reduced. Over a moderate period of time, the national income perhaps could be increased.

Mr. McGeer said he wondered why these things had not been done by Dr. Clark in the depression years.

Dr. Clark said Mr. McGeer was placing too much importance on him. The crux of the question was whether the Canadian people could unite on some ideal and stay together to achieve peacetime objectives as they had stood together in war.

Mr. McGeer said it was dangerous to say that an internal debt was nothing to worry about.

Mr. Gardner said earlier that proposals to have the government take over savings accounts for financing purposes would "wreck" the existing banking system.

Mr. Gardner, appearing as a witness before the committee which is examining the bill extending bank charters for 10 years, dealt with amendments proposed by Mr. McGeer and Mr. Slaght.

Mr. Gardner said if the government took over savings accounts, the money in them would be owed to the government but would remain in the hands of the banks. The banks, under the proposals set forth, would be required to put 100 per cent reserves behind these amounts which would completely "wreck" the banking system.

All the war financing required had been done successfully under existing banking laws.

SAVINGS SUGGESTED

Mr. McGeer in his speech said that the Bank of Canada could enter the savings bank business, opening through the post office savings bank and thus have easily accessible facilities throughout Canada.

Wednesday he said that in financing the war the government might well ask the holders of savings deposits totalling more than $2,000,000,000 to make their money available to the government, with interest to the paid and full security offered them.

Finance Minister Flaherty said yesterday he understood Mr. McGeer's proposal to be that the Bank of Canada go into the savings bank business. He commended the post office savings bank facilities already were available.

HAVE MACHINERY

Mr. McGeer: "We have all the machinery. The Bank of Canada can take over the post office bank system, and then we have the facilities to serve savings accounts in every town and hamlet."

Mr. Flaherty: "This is something new."

Mr. McGeer: "Well, you asked me what I would do if I was in your position. The postmasters are being paid now, and there would be no liability on the Bank of Canada in taking over this business."

At the conclusion of his address Mr. McGeer gave notice of motion that he would ask for the appointment of a Royal Commission immediately to consider in what way the banking institution and the monetary system may be modified or extended to improve present methods of providing governments and citizens with a "sufficient supply and an effective circulation of the medium of exchange required to sustain the going concern activity of the nation."

F.D.R. Given Fourth-Term Nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It promised the "earliest possible release" of wartime economic controls.

WORLD FREE PRESS

To augment international associations for world peace, the platform put the party on record for a "world free press" to facilitate free and untrammelled interchange of news among nations. The free press plank said:

"We believe in the world right of all men to write, send and publish news at uniform communication rates and without interference by governmental or private monopoly and that right should be protected by treaty."

The "peace-by-force" foreign plank declared:

"That the world may not again be drenched in blood by international outlaws and criminals, we pledge:

JOIN WITH OTHERS

"To join with the other United Nations in the establishment of an international organization based on the principles of the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states, open to membership by all such states, large and small, for the prevention of aggression and the maintenance of international peace and security."

"To make all necessary and effective agreements and arrangements through which the nations would maintain adequate forces to meet the needs of preventing war and of making impossible the preparation for war and which would have such forces available for joint action when necessary."

"Such organization must be endowed with power to employ armed forces when necessary to prevent aggression and preserve peace."

INTERNATIONAL COURT

"We favor the maintenance of an international court of justice of which the United States shall be a member and the employment of diplomacy, conciliation, arbitration and other like methods where appropriate in the settlement of international disputes."

The platform pledged party support to the Atlantic Charter and the four freedoms—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from fear and freedom from want.

Survey Needs For Camp Labor

Making a survey of possible requirement for prisoner of war employment in lumber camps in northern Alberta, and in other industry, Col. E. S. Doughty, Calgary, department of labor officer in charge of prisoner of war placement, arrived in Edmonton Friday to confer with employers here.

He said that there are 300 prisoners of war employed in Northern Alberta and it is probable that this number will be increased to 500 next winter as a result of the survey now being carried out.

Col. Doughty said that 500 prisoners were working on individual farms in Southern Alberta, 125 of whom have been working for nearly a year on farms, and not one attempt to escape has been made.

Roosevelt Sees Lasting Peace In Four Years

train stationed deep inside a Pacific naval base, which he reached after a six-day trip across the country.

He said he was at the base "in the performance of my duties under the constitution" and declared:

"The war waits for no elections. Decisions must be made—plans must be laid—strategy must be carried out."

"They do not concern merely a party or group. They will affect the daily lives of Americans for generations to come."

Mr. Roosevelt outlined the administration's post-war aims to join the United States in an international organization, empowered to use military might of participating nations to keep the future peace. Also being planned, he said, are the blueprints for a domestic economy to provide "employment and decent standards of living for all Americans."

PEOPLE TO DECIDE

"The people of the United States will decide this fall whether they wish to turn over this 1944 job—this world-wide job—to inexperienced and immature hands."

The President said, "to those who oppose lend lease and international co-operation against the forces of aggression and tyranny until they could read the polls of popular sentiment, or whether they wish to leave it to those who saw the danger from abroad, who met it head-on, and who now have seized the offensive and carried the war to its present stages of success; to those who by international conferences and united actions have begun to build that kind of common understanding and co-operative experience which will be so necessary in the world to come."

"They will not decide these questions by reading flowing words of platform pledges. They will decide on the record."

Into the record on the side of the administration he put American military successes, war and food production "unparalleled in all history," the Atlantic Charter and the Moscow Declaration and "our accomplishments in recovery and reform since March 4, 1933."

NOT POLITICAL MOVE

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his statement of last week, that he will not run for office in the usual political sense.

"In these days of tragic sorrow, I do not consider it fitting," he said. "Besides, in these days of global warfare I shall not be able to find the time. I shall, however, feel free to report to the people the facts about matters of concern to them and especially to correct any misrepresentations."

He said "It seems wholly likely that within the next four years our armed forces, and those of our allies, will have gained a complete victory over Germany and Japan, and that the world once more will be at peace—under a system, we hope, which will prevent a new world war."

CHANCE FOR "NEW HANDS"

"In any event, new hands will then have full opportunity to realize the ideals which we seek."

Some of his listeners read into the last sentence a hint that the fourth term nomination would be the last for the man who, four years ago, cracked the national tradition of two terms with his election to 12 years in the White House.

Widow of Noted Artist, Writer Dies: 91 Years

Mrs. Marietta Garrett, widow of Edmund H. Garrett, distinguished American artist, lecturer and writer, and mother of Julian Garrett, general manager, Northwestern Utilities Ltd., died here Thursday at 9 p.m. She was 91 years old.

She was born May 22, 1853, at East Cambridge, Mass., and was predeceased by her husband in 1929. She had been in excellent health until about four weeks ago, when she suffered a stroke from which she died.

During her life she travelled extensively with her artist-husband as he roamed the continents of America, Europe and Africa in search of subjects for his artistic skill. He excelled in the painting of landscapes in oils and water colors, and was a member of many of America's most famous art clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett travelled through Britain, Holland, Belgium, France, Spain, Morocco, Switzerland, and spent much time in the Cape Cod vicinity and in the southern states. They also visited Jamaica and Bermuda.

LIVED IN U.S. Mrs. Garrett was resident at Needham, Mass., until about two years ago, when she came to reside in Edmonton.

She is survived by two sons, Julian Garrett in Edmonton, and Edmund H. Garrett, New York; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A private funeral service will be held at Howard and McBride's chapel on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Police Officers Continue Search For Elusive Men

Royal Canadian Mounted Police, assisted by residents of the areas concerned, were continuing Friday in the hunt for Paul Abraham, 23-year-old Indian, alleged murderer of his wife, of Cherrill; and for Richard Menzel, German prisoner of war, who disappeared Saturday last from a labor camp at Whitecourt.

Abraham disappeared late in the evening of July 17, after following his wife from their tent, carrying a gun. Her body was found in some bushes by her father and other members of the tribe.

The areas about Whitecourt and Cherrill are covered by heavy bushland, and in the former case, officers and posses are being assisted by the R.C.M.P. Vegreville detachment's dog, Peter Pan.

Before the Magistrate

Eugene Labouane will make Fort Saskatchewan his address until Oct. 21, by a ruling from Magistrate Harold L. Howe, K.C., Friday morning. Eugene left the court an aggrieved man, for he hadn't taken Lador Callah's watch with intent to steal it. He merely was afraid that someone else would steal it, he avowed.

After getting the timepiece, he went to a grocery store and tried to raise $10 on it, the court was told. He was at the store when detectives walked in, searched him and found the watch.

George Miller, Edward Vaudrin and Abraham Martin had differences in a 96 street cafe, the last named charging the first two with assault. They were told they were too old to be battling each other and the case was dismissed.

Richard P. Davis pleaded guilty to being in possession of stolen property and was placed on suspended sentence for one year. The accused said he bought a Graflex camera worth $125 for $10 from a soldier. The camera, owned by an American army officer, earlier had been stolen from the Red Cross hut, it was stated.

Mabel A. Klugh pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and was fined $15 or 20 days. An accident was said to have occurred while she was driving her auto at 102A avenue and 101 street Thursday afternoon, and two persons slightly injured.

Robert Fletcher and Lillian LaPierre were remanded for sentence until Saturday after pleading guilty to being in possession of drugs.

Fletcher also pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Dispensaries Limited, Tegler building, and stealing therefrom narcotics and stamps. He acknowledged previous convictions for breach of the Narcotics Drug Act, forgery, breaking and entering, and theft, at Vancouver, Saskatoon, North Battleford.

16-Year-Old Youth Gets Year in Jail

Pleading guilty to a charge of rape a 16-year-old Mountain Park youth was sentenced by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie in supreme court Friday to serve one year in Fort Saskatchewan jail. The offence was committed at Cadomin where the accused was working in a coal mine. Passing sentence Mr. Justice Tweedie said he was taking into consideration the fact that following the offence the accused confessed his crime to both the girl's parents and the R.C.M.P. His counsel, A. W. Miller, K.C., said there was a "strong strain of decency in a boy, realizing the terrible crime he had committed, who had the courage to go to the victim's parents, and also to the police and make a clean breast of his crime." He commended the fairness with which Crown Prosecutor Guy Patterson, K.C., placed the facts before the court.

City Soldier Is Awarded Medal For Gallantry

An Edmonton born man, Sgt. Harold Emery Webb, has been awarded the U.S. Bronze Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry in the Italian campaign. It was announced today from national defence headquarters, Ottawa.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Webb of Bremner.

This was one of two awards announced as having been conferred on Canadian personnel by the President of the United States.

Sgt. Webb, a member of the Canadian-American 1st Special Assault Force, took part in the landings on the Anzio beachhead, and was wounded by an enemy sniper June 1, during the drive on Rome.

He enlisted in Edmonton in 1940 with the 1st Bn. Edmonton Fusiliers and when the first international assault troop was formed he transferred to it. Completing courses in paratrooping, mountain fighting, and amphibious assault in the United States and Canada, he took part in the occupation of Kiska and then returned to Canada and proceeded overseas in 1943.

Born here in 1911, he attended Westmount and East Clover Bar schools, and is a graduate of the Vermilion School of Agriculture. At the time of his enlistment he was working on the family farm at Bremner.

A brother Lt. Neil Webb went overseas in 1939 as an original member of The Loyd Edmonton Regiment, and is at present on active duty. A sister Miss Margaret Webb is living in this city.

Citation for his award has not been announced.

Special Warrant For Election Cost

Special warrant for $200,000 to cover estimated provincial election expenses has been approved by the provincial government. It was learned here Friday. An order-in-council covering the sum has been passed and signed. In the 1940 provincial general election, costs amounted to $178,000. Increased expenses are expected in the present campaign due to recently-increased fees for deputy returning officers and election clerks, whose remunerations have been raised from $6 to $8 and from $4 to $6, respectively.

In addition enumeration expenses are expected to show an increase, due to Election Act amendments lowering voting age in the province to 18 years. Enumerators receive 10 cents for each name listed.

Premier to Speak

Premier Ernest Manning and other city Social Credit candidates will speak Saturday night at meetings to be held in Westmount Community hall and Varsity Tuck Shop. Both meetings are scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Former City Woman Dies at Vermilion

A funeral service for Mrs. William Leversedge, wife of the Rev. William Leversedge of Vermilion, was held in St. Saviour's church on Wednesday. The Rev. W. F. Barfoot, assisted by Archdeacon S. F. In 1908 Mrs. Leversedge, then Kate Isabel Ramsey, came to Canada from Devonshire, England, where she had been head of a school. She came to marry Mr. Leversedge who had arrived two years earlier to undertake church work. They were married in All Saints' church, Edmonton, by the then Archdeacon Henry Allen Gray. The young couple then went to reside in Wabamun which was the centre of the former Pembina mission where Mr. Leversedge served. Missionaries in Edmonton, Onaway and Tofield, they moved to Anxoy and later to Cumberland, B.C. They returned to Edmonton in 1925 and resided in Edmonton at the parish of St. Mark's and St. Mary's and latterly in Vermilion.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION
What do you think of the system of allowing election candidates additional gasoline?

THE ANSWERS
TOM GALLOWAY, clerk: On the face of it there seems to be little justification for consuming additional amounts of gasoline on the home front while there is need of it for the armed services. On the other hand, if there is to be an opportunity for candidates to cover their constituencies, I suppose there is no other course, because, without automotive transportation, little territory would be covered.

HERBERT FRYER, traveller: There are two sides to the question. On the one hand it may be argued that candidates, some of whom have no chance of election, have no more right than others to obtain extra gasoline. Then, it may be submitted that the extra gas is essential if the candidates are going to have a fair opportunity of contacting the electors. I would say that if the gasoline is available, then it is okay to let them have it.

FRANK SMITHSON, mechanic: If the gas is available and there is no ensuing shortage either for the armed services or other members of the public, by all means make the additional issue.

Members of "C" Company South Side Battalion, Veterans Volunteer Reserve will meet at Bennett school at 19:30 hours Friday for target practice.

Plan to Build Agricultural Post in North

Establishment of a Dominion government experimental sub-station under the department of agriculture, 100 miles west of Whitehorse on the Alaska Highway is reported in a story carried in the Fort St. John Alaska Highway News.

The experimental farm will occupy an 800 acre tract of land in a valley at the headwaters of the Alsek River. It is located on the highway, telegraph and telephone lines, is near an air strip and reasonably close to Whitehorse.

J. W. Abbott, J. P. of Fort St. John, pioneer northern agriculturist, has been appointed superintendent of the farm, and has left the northern town with a convoy of trucks hauling materials for breaking operations and building construction at the farm.

It is reported the Dominion government is establishing the experimental station with a view to getting exact facts, as to conditions and costs of farming in that area of the Alaska Highway. The 800 acre tract is in a wild state. An all-year round creek runs through the land, fed by a lake. The stream is Pine Creek and will be a source for domestic purposes, irrigation and possibly power.

REPRESENTATIVE
It is believed the area is fairly representative of all Yukon.

Beyond Pine Creek to the north is the famous Klunene Lake country and the National Park Reserve of the Yukon which will be administered from offices which may possibly be built near the new farm centre.

Mr. Abbott, for some years stipendiary magistrate at Fort St. John, has announced that he will resign this position to take up his new duties.

RETURNED MAN
Mr. Abbott is a returned man from the last war. He has farmed at Baldonnel in northern B.C. since 1919 and was among the first to produce alfalfa seed north of the Peace.

He said he will devote all his time to the farm duties, 1,000 miles due north of the homestead upon which he settled when he got back from war service in 1919. His task which is clearly set out, he said, is to develop the 800-acre tract at Pine Creek in such a way as to show the possibilities of the land for general agricultural production.

Lions Hear Talks On Flooded Areas

The Lions' club at its regular luncheon Thursday at the Macdonald hotel, heard F. H. Skenfield speak on the recent flood loss suffered by the farmers in the flooded area of the northern part of Alberta.

Mr. Skenfield said that he and a few other men representing the Red Cross had visited this area during this costly and unprecedented flood. When the waters of the Pembina and its tributary the Paddle river suddenly became swollen the majority of the people in this area were entirely unprepared for such conditions with the result of over 150 families, suffered a loss from 75 to 95 per cent of their livestock and buildings. One family lost more than 200 sheep and many others lost all their cattle and poultry. The Red Cross undertook the difficult task of supplying food, clothing, mattresses and medical supplies. Mr. Skenfield told the club that in one place of the Pembina river the flooded area was four miles wide and cars, tractors, and machinery were completely inundated by the flooded waters.

The speaker was thanked by Lion "Dirk" Thomson for his address and was invited to return at a later date.

Molstead-Hortie Nuptials Held at St. Luke's Church

Peonies and snapdragons decorated St. Luke's church for the wedding Thursday at 7:30 p.m. of Miss Cora Lillian Hortie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Hortie, and LAC Howard Molstead, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Molstead, all of Edmonton. The Rev. W. H. Hatfield performed the ceremony.

Miss Eileen Willis played the wedding music and Miss Hazel Bunkle sang "O Promise Me", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown fashioned with a flared skirt and a fitted bodice having a sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves finishing in a lily point over the hand. The gown had inserts of lace. Her long veil fell from a bandeau of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

Miss Betty Bruce, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Gladys Hortie, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of light blue taffeta styled floor-length, blue chapel veils, and carried bouquets of pink carnations and sweet peas.

LAC Fred Monty, R.C.A.F., was best man and ushers were James Twitchell and Sgt. Jack Palmer. The bridegroom, best man and ushers are members of the band of No. 3 Manning Depot.

RECEPTION HELD

After the ceremony, a reception for 70 guests was held at the MacDonald hotel, where the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and decorated with pink and white snapdragons and tall ivory tapers.

LAC Monty proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Hortie chose for her daughter's wedding a sea green two-piece crepe dress, brown hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was of Tallman roses. Mrs. Molstead, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy and white ensemble and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon at Banff and Jasper, the bride travelling in a turquoise blue wool suit and black accessories. Upon their return to Edmonton LAC Molstead will leave for his station at Toronto and Mrs. Molstead will join him later.

Many of Finest Blooms Will Be on Display in Lobby for Two Days

Opportunity of seeing hundreds of the best rose blooms in Edmonton will be provided on Monday and Tuesday, when the flowers will be on display in the rotunda of the Capitol Theatre.

The beautiful blooms are entries in the 12th annual rose show to be sponsored by the theatre. Chief award in the exhibition will be the imposing Edmonton Bulletin challenge trophy, to be given to the exhibitor of the best rose bloom in the show.

Sponsors of the show are Walter P. Wilson, manager of the Capitol Theatre, and Alfred Pike, well-known city seedman. Mr. Pike is a past president of the Edmonton Horticultural and Vacant Lots Association.

A replica of the Edmonton Bulletin trophy becomes the permanent property of the owner of the prize-winning bloom, while the trophy itself, a perpetual challenge cup, remains in the winner's possession for one year.

ENTRIES CLOSE

Entries for the show close Saturday at 10 p.m. Entry forms must be filled out and in the Capitol Theatre or Pike & Co., offices, 10049 Jasper avenue, by that time.

This arrangement has been made in order that space may be allotted for exhibitors.

All rose blooms for the show must be at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, July 24, by 12 o'clock noon. Judging will take place in the early afternoon following which all blooms will be on view in the rotunda of the theatre.

WELL KNOWN JUDGE

Well known rose judge, Ernest J. Stowe, who is chief gardener of the provincial government, will select the winners of the show.

Indications already point to a larger entry list than in previous years, and Mr. Wilson expects this year's show will exceed its predecessors.

With ample rain and sunshine during the last few weeks, ideal weather conditions have existed for production of "first class" flowers. Classes for novices and the open classes are slated in the show, which is divided into two groups.

Exhibitors who have never won a first prize in a flower show, horticultural show or the Capitol Theatre rose show may compete in the novice class.

Winners at horticultural shows are eligible for the open classes, but novices may also enter their blooms in the open classes.

Four competitions will be featured in the novice classes, one for the best collection of three rose blooms, any color; for one rose bloom, red or pink; another for one rose bloom, white or cream; and a fourth for one rose bloom, any other color.

SIX COMPETITIONS

Six competitions are included in the open classes. There are two competitions for collections: one for six rose blooms, any color; and the other for three rose blooms any color. Four classes are arranged for a single rose, white or cream; pink or rose; red or crimson; and any other color or shade.

Tojo Ouster Will Not Deceive U.S.

By LYLE C. WILSON

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Acting U.S. Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, warning that the change in Japanese leaders may be just "window dressing," predicted Thursday that those in control would install "the toughest and most ruthless commanders" for the army and navy posts in the new cabinet.

"The Japanese need not think that because they change their leaders we will forget what happened at Pearl Harbor and thereafter," Patterson told a press conference.

Commenting on the fall of Premier Hideki Tojo, Patterson said the United States would not be fooled by any move in Japan to install leaders who pretend to be friendly to the United States. Tojo's fall, however, is proof that the Japanese people are beginning to be aware of the serious character of Japanese defeats, he said.

Estimates Two Years Needed to Beat Japs

WINNIPEG, July 21.—(CP)—Capt. Robin Miller, 27-year-old accredited war correspondent for the New Zealand government, said in an interview here yesterday he believed it would take "a maximum of another two years to beat down the Japanese." Capt. Miller, who has covered fighting in Greece, Crete and Guadalcanal, said the people of New Zealand were grateful for the way their servicemen had been received in Canada and especially for the hospitality given them.

Nazis Blown Up

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP)—The British battleship Nelson, firing at almost 20 miles range, blew an automobile load of Germans into atoms with a direct hit from a 16-inch shell. The Nelson's commander, Capt. A. H. Maxwell-Hyslop, telling a press conference about it yesterday, said the shot was "one of the extraordinary flukes."

Lac. Ste. Anne Returning Officer Scarlet Fever Makes Appearance

Is Forced to Withdraw From Post

While election candidates of four parties are stumping the length and breadth of Alberta in exposition of their political creeds, something new and entirely different has entered election lists.

Brickbats and bouquets make the general bill of fare in a provincial general election, but today's newcomer makes trouble for election officials.

The intruder is scarlet fever which struck Thursday at William Brown, Sanguo, returning officer for the constituency of Lac Ste.
Anne. As a result, Mr. Brown will be in quarantine for 28 days, until
Aug. 18, or 10 days after the elec-

Extension of Farm Act To All Canada Is Urged

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—Several opposition members in the Commons yesterday praised the federal government's Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act and urged that its provisions be extended to the whole of Canada.

J. W. Burton (C.C.F., Humboldt) and John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) led those who urged extension of the act during a day in which examination of the civil estimates of the agriculture department was completed.

"Now is the time to make preparations not only for the rewording and rewriting of the act, but also to plan so that as soon as the war is over we may begin on a program calling for an expenditure of at least $100,000,000 in each of a few years following the war," said Mr. Burton.

The experience gained by operating under the act in the drought areas of the prairies would be of great benefit to all farming communities in Canada.

SUGGESTS THREE ZONES

For purposes of the act, the country could be divided into three zones, one for the maritimes, one for central Canada and one for the western provinces, all working under an administrative head.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said he believed the government had plans for the expenditure of $100,000,000 under the P.F.R.A., but the money would be spent over a number of years and there was no telling how quickly the work could be carried out.

Study of the agriculture estimates followed completion of the examination of all budget resolutions excepting those relating to customs and tariffs.

NO DEFINITE PLAN

Prime Minister Mackenzie King suggested to the house that no definite plan had been settled which would see Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt visit Australia and New Zealand to consider direction of the war in the Pacific. In supporting extension of the P.F.R.A., Mr. Diefenbaker said such a move would bring returns far greater than any amount spent on it.

He did not agree that $100,000,000 should be spent under the act in a few years after the war, but expressed belief that "tremendous good could be done without spending that amount."

The government should continue to move western farmers off sub-marginal lands.

Mr. Gardiner said approximately 1,800 families had been moved off sub-marginal lands which were turned into community pastures. More than 1,200,000 acres of land in Saskatchewan and Manitoba had been turned into community pastures which were providing feed for some 38,000 cattle, 13,000 horses and 12,000 sheep.

NOT ALL PASTURES

All sub-marginal land did not have to be turned into pastures. Land which would not grow wheat might be suitable for potatoes or other crops.

While discussing possible irrigation projects in Western Canada, Mr. Gardiner said engineers would continue to survey this year the possibilities of building a dam on the South Saskatchewan river, near Saskatchewan Landing, north of Swift Current.

John R. MacNicol, (P.C.—Toronto-Davenport) said engineers had told him that a dam built near Saskatchewan Landing would provide sufficient water to irrigate approximately 1,000,000 acres.

J. P. Tripp (L.—Assiniboia) expressed belief that a greater number of small dams for irrigation purposes were needed in the southern part of Saskatchewan.

D. A. McNiven (L.—Regina City) said he thought eastern manufacturers were looking for an excuse not to establish industry on the prairies when the spoke of a lack of water supply, Winnipeg, Brandon, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Battleford, Calgary and Edmonton were all situated on large rivers and had an abundant water supply.

UNFAIR COMPETITION

Many industries had started but few had survived, largely because of unfair competition from industries in the east.

At the evening sitting the customs and tariffs resolutions were taken up and the removal of the duty on farm implements and parts set off a brisk debate in which members of all parties participated.

Draughtsman

Ian McLeod of Edmonton, draughtsman with the Standard Oil Co. Ltd. of Alaska at Whitehorse. One of many Edmontonians working on the Canal project. Mr. McLeod's home is at 9731 109 street.

Isley to Check Date For Lower Machine Prices

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—Finance Minister Isley said in the Commons last night that he will "look into the matter" of establishing the date when, after removal of the tariff and war exchange tax, prices of imported farm implements must be reduced.

Mr. Isley made the statement after several members had protested that delaying until Sept. 30 the lowering of the ceiling price on imported implements and parts would delay the benefit of the tax reduction so far as farmers were concerned until after purchases needed for the year's harvest had been made.

RECENTLY FIXED

The Sept. 30 date was fixed in a recent announcement. Robert Fair (S.C.—Battle River) asked if it were possible to set that date ahead 30 days, and make it Aug. 30 instead of September.

Mr. Isley then replied "It might be; I shall look into the matter." He spoke during a discussion concerning removal of the duty on farm implements, which provoked brisk discussion on tariff items in the budget resolutions.

Representatives of farming areas generally approved the change although some believed further steps were necessary to break what they termed a monopoly in the implement manufacturing industry.

Sask. May Ration Beer by Coupon

REGINA, July 21.—(CP)—Sale of bottled beer in Saskatchewan by a coupon ration system is being considered by the provincial government as one method for overcoming the present inequitable method of distributing the available supply. Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines said Thursday following a conference with representatives of the Saskatchewan Hotel-keepers' Association.

Mr. Fines emphasized that the whole question of a more equitable system for distributing the available supply of beer was being studied by the provincial government. No move would be made until the situation had been considered from all angles and some system devised for a fairer distribution.

Suggestions considered during the meeting included a coupon system similar to that used for rationing gasoline.

U-Boat Sinking Brings Awards To Naval Men

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—The Navy announced yesterday nine awards—including two Distinguished Service Crosses—to officers and men of the Canadian frigate Waskesiu for "good service in the destruction of an enemy submarine."

The sinking of the U-boat, which occurred last winter in the North Atlantic, had been announced previously.

The awards:

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL

AB. John H. Richard of Port Arthur.

AB. Thomas Stephenson of Toronto.

The Waskesiu was the first Canadian frigate to sink a German U-boat.

Gardiner Corrects Report on Beef

OTTAWA, July 21.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said yesterday in the Commons that he wished to correct press reports which quoted him as urging farmers to hold back their beef cattle now so as to relieve congestion at the packing plants.

"I believe the house and the committee will agree that I did not suggest that farmers hold back their cattle," he said.

(Mr. Gardiner said in the Commons Tuesday that a market could be guaranteed for all finished beef, but "I must admit that there is a real difficulty—we must be able to get it through plants that can freeze it.")

"We have huge deliveries of hogs just as we have huge deliveries of cattle in the fall of the year, and there may be some difficulties unless the farmers will assist us by distributing their marketings over as long a period as possible rather than rushing them on to the market all at one time," he said. He emphasized that beef sent to market should be well finished.)

The agriculture department hoped that farmers would market their finished cattle now so there would not be too great a glut in October in the packing plants, he said. It was hoped the cattle would move through the plants before the fall hogs began coming in. "I had no intention of suggesting that farmers hold back their cattle," he said.

2,172 Vancouver Families Urgently Need New Homes

VANCOUVER, July 21.—(CP)—There are 2,172 families in urgent need of housing accommodation here, Miss Millicent Fleming of National Housing Registry said yesterday. Of these, 619 can pay no more than $20 a month. Suites being built now do not meet the greatest needs, Miss Fleming said. They are too expensive. Members of the armed forces make up 779 of the families in need of housing and 395 of these can pay no more than $30 a month rent, Miss Fleming added.
